SIR DOVETON STURDEE.

SOME STORIES OF A GREAT ADMIRAL.

Admiral of the Fleet Sir Frederick Charles Doveton Sturdee who died at Wargrave House, Crawley, Sussex, Camberley, last month, had a long and distinguished service career, but he will be best known by the present generation as the hero of the Battle of the Falklands—the battle which avenged the Coronel disaster and which is regarded by some as the only decisive victory of the Great War.

It is as well to recall the fact that it was the day after the news of the disaster off Coronel was received that Lord Fisher, with that resourcefulness which was such a distinguishing trait in him, issued orders that the battle-cruisers Invincible and Inflexible were to be detached from the fleet and proceed forthwith to Devonport, dock there, have their hulls cleaned, take in six months' stores, and complete with coal. To Admiral Sturdee was entrusted the task of seeking out and destroying the enemy squadron that had wrought such havoc in the South Pacific in the early days of November, 1914.

THE MAN AND HIS MISSION.

The fitting-out of the Invincible and Inflexible was the first step towards the fulfilment of the vows of the crews of ships of the Grand Fleet to avenge Coronel; but the preparations were made with such profound secrecy that the officers and men were absolutely in the dark as to the mission upon which they were to embark. Vice-Admiral Sturdee, as he then was, had been serving at the Admiralty until November 8th, and it was on that day that he left London and proceeded to Devonport to hoist his flag in the Invincible.

The story of the hustle and bustle which accompanied the equipping of the two battle-cruisers—unknown to the general public outside the Dockyard—is admirably told by Com. the Hon. Harry Bingham, V.C., one of the officers who went with Sturdee, in his splendid little book, "Falklands, Jutland, and the Fight." "The work that had to be done at Devonport in three days," he says, "was colossal. We stored and provisioned all day and most of the night, and finally sailed from 2 p.m. on one afternoon until noon on the following day. A party of seven or eight public school direct entry midshipmen arrived in the nick of time to join in the proceedings."

"At the end of it one and all were completely exhausted. Officers and men, begrimed all over from top to toe, unshaven, haggard, and weary, were staggering about like drunken flies. During our stay there was no question of leave and no chance of farewells to relations and friends."

It was a few minutes after 4 p.m. on Nov. 10th that the vessels left Devonport—course south: speed, 20 knots for 24 hours. When clear of home waters speed was reduced to 12 knots. All that the officers of the two ships had and would was that they were going south, and that they might be away six months or more. It was not until the ships were at sea that the mystery was solved.

Admiral Sturdee's new appointment—a temporary one—was Commander-in-Chief, South Atlantic and South Pacific; and his instructions were to take the Invincible and Inflexible under his orders and proceed southward at a maximum economical speed. At a certain rendezvous he was to be joined by cruisers already in South Atlantic waters; and with this combined force he was to seek out and annihilate von Spee's squadron, and there was to be no return home until these orders had been carried out to the letter.

By the crews of the vessels this news was hailed with the greatest enthusiasm; and the fact is recorded that when the ships "crossed the line" the occasion was celebrated with the customary ceremonies. Admiral Sturdee, in welcoming King Neptune and his retinue on the flag-ship, explained why England had taken part in the war, her aims, and determination to see these realized, and, finally, the justice of her cause.

SECRET RENDEZVOUS.

Abrolhos Rocks, situated 30 miles south of the coast of Brazil, was the secret rendezvous, and there the battle-cruisers were joined by the Carnarvon (flagship of Rear-Admiral A. P. Stoddart), Kent, Cornwall, Glasgow, Bristol, and Uranian. Admiral Sturdee decided to proceed to the Falkland Islands, and as one of the participants in the epic battle which followed has observed, "for once fortune was on our side." On the morning of December 7th the squadron anchored in Port William, the outer harbour of the Falklands.

The squadron had not long to wait before those serving under Admiral Sturdee were led to declare that his decision to proceed to the Falklands was inspired. On the morning following the arrival of the ships at Port William von Spee and his squadron were caught in the trap, and steamed "right into the jaws of the lion." After the German squadron had been sighted the British ships put to sea, and annihilated von Spee's squadron. Thus was Coronel avenged.

LANDED AT PLYMOUTH.

After leaving the Falklands the British Squadron proceeded to Gibraltar, from which port Admiral Sturdee—his services being required nearer home—and his staff came home in a P. and O. steamer, landing at Plymouth on February 3rd, 1915. Com. Bingham was a passenger by the same vessel, and a paragraph in a chapter of his book describing the passage is worth quoting if only because of the personal touch in his reference to "the character of the great sailor who has served his country so well."

"The homeward passage in the P. and O. steamer," he says, "was a very cheerful affair, even though we eased down to eight knots off Cadiz and never exceeded that depressing rate of speed for the remainder of the voyage. Sir Doveton Sturdee was the life and soul of the ship." (Continued on next column).

SAIGON RICE MARKET.

Messrs. Wm. G. Hale & Co., Ltd., of Saigon, in their fortnightly circular dated June 2nd state:—

The weakness of our market during the first days of the fortnight under review determined some business with Japan. But when only a few thousand tons were bought, and whilst some dealers were expecting a further drop, prices advanced again, stopping all transactions.

It is rumoured that the crop in China is deficient and though the Hongkong market is still very weak, and, except from Japan, there is no enquiry at all from foreign countries, our market closed firm.

Paddy.—Detentors refuse to sell at a cheap price and stock their paddy. As they are not greatly in want of money, it seems difficult to expect a real improvement in our market in the near future.

Freight to Hongkong.—Market very weak. No charters for the rate has fallen to 12 cents per picul. The Charterers of the Japanese s.s. Busho Maru fixed at 21 cents at the beginning of May would be pleased to cancel but offered a too small indemnity which was refused. No fresh fixtures to report.

His exuberant spirits proved infectious to the civilian passengers, who were no less susceptible to the magic of the Admiral's personal charm.

Admiral Sturdee lived to see ten anniversaries of the great battle with which his name will be associated for generations to come. Admiral Sir R. F. Phillimore, at present Commander-in-Chief at Devonport, was a captain, and in command of the Inflexible when the Falklands Battle was fought; and on the tenth anniversary last November Admiral and Lady Phillimore gave a dinner party at Admiralty House, Devonport, when there were present a number of officers who were serving in the ships that took part in the battle.

NELSON'S FLAGSHIP.

A great post-war service by Admiral Sturdee was in connection with the restoration of Nelson's flagship. Three years ago it was found that there was some danger of the Victory falling to pieces at her moorings, and she was removed into dry dock. Sir Doveton Sturdee then set on foot a campaign to raise funds to preserve the ship and to restore her to the condition in which she went into action at Trafalgar. This involved extensive structural repairs and an enormous amount of alterations and additions in the external details of the ship's hull and interior. A few weeks ago the old ship was raised in the dock so that the beauty of her lines could be better seen. The alterations are not yet completed, and further funds will be needed to complete the work, but Admiral Sturdee had the satisfaction of seeing the greater part of the work of restoration accomplished and the ship re-opened to the public.

OPIUM ON S.S. "HO SANG."

POLICE COURT SEQUEL TO HUGE SEIZURE.

INDO-CHINA STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY SUMMONED.

The sequel to the huge seizure of 9,009 tins of prepared opium valued at $72,072, by Revenue Officers on the s.s. Ho Sang (Indo-China Steam Navigation Company) by Revenue Officers on April 30th, had a sequel at the Central Magistracy yesterday, when before Mr. S. B. R. McDermott, the Indo-China Steam Navigation Company were summoned at the instance of the Imports and Exports Department for unlawfully using the s.s. Ho Sang for the importation, conveyance, storage, and exportation of 9,009 tins of prepared opium.

The proceedings were taken under Ordinance No. 30 of 1923, Section 21, sub-section 1. Mr. T. Whyte Smith (Assistant Crown Solicitor) appeared to prosecute on behalf of the Imports and Exports Department and Mr. R. E. Webster appeared on behalf of the Indo-China Steam Navigation Company.

Mr. Whyte Smith said that on April 30th, Revenue Officers went on board the Ho Sang, and in two coal bunkers they found concealed underneath a large quantity of coal 35½ kerosene tins which contained what appeared to be Amoy prepared opium. The Ho Sang was an oil burner and therefore did not use coal for running purposes, but a certain amount of coal was kept in the bunkers for use in the galleys. There were about ten tons of coal on top of the kerosene tins containing the opium. It must have taken a considerable time to shift this quantity of coal before the tins were reached. The ship called at Calcutta and then at Amoy and the Crown suggested that it was while at Amoy that the coal was shovelled away to such an extent as to permit the tins containing the opium to be effectually concealed. This would indicate that there must have been a certain amount of work done to conceal the opium. The Crown would like to know what precautions were taken by those on board to prevent the concealment of such things as opium and contraband. This was a considerable quantity, 9,009 tins, and it appeared that if this Section was not going to become a dead letter altogether things of this nature must not be allowed to pass.

Mr. Whyte Smith, continuing, said that gratings at the side of the vessel, would if left open, permit opium or anything else to have been put into the vessel. They did not know what was done, but there was a connection between the two bunkers. If there had been a junk alongside, it would have been quite possible to pass the opium through the grating. They did not know if this was the way in which it was done; but they thought it was probably done in this manner.

THE SEARCH.

Chief Preventive Officer S. J. Clarke, said that early in the morning of April 30th, he received information, in consequence of which he sent Revenue Officer Warden in charge of a party of Chinese Revenue Officers and coal coolies with instructions to turn over the coal in the bunkers of the Ho Sang and if they found anything to send for him. About eleven o'clock the same morning, witness was called to the vessel and in the port bunker found exposed 25½ kerosene tins each of which was full of packets of opium. In the starboard bunker, an other 9 kerosene tins full of opium were found when the coal was turned over. Altogether there were 35½ full tins, a total of 9,009 tins of opium. About ten tons of coal were shifted in the port bunker before opium was discovered, and about six or seven tons in the starboard bunker. The tins were packed two and three deep in the bottom of the bunkers against the bulkhead.

Mr. Whyte Smith: With your experience do you consider that opium could have been put on board without someone of the crew or someone on board knowing anything about it?

Witness: It is very doubtful, considering the amount of coal that had to be moved.

Cross-examined by Mr. Webster, witness admitted that the boat came in on April 28th and was searched by three separate parties of Revenue Officers prior to his receiving information which led to the final search and the haul and that as a result of those three searches only the small amount of 90 tins of opium was found on the vessel.

Mr. Webster: That points to the fact that it was extraordinarily well concealed.

Witness: It was well concealed. Revenue Officer Warden gave evidence to the effect that he went on board the Ho Sang with a party of Chinese Revenue Officers and coal coolies on instructions received from C.P.O. Clark. He said that it took two hours to shift the coal in the port bunker before the kerosene tins, containing the opium, were found.

After the evidence of this witness, the court adjourned, as His Worship expressed a wish to go on board the Ho Sang and see the position of the bunkers and various doors that had been mentioned during the case.

This closed the case for the prosecution.

CASE FOR DEFENCE.

When the Court resumed the hearing in the afternoon, the case was opened for the defence.

His Worship: It is very difficult to get away from the fact that the opium was found on the ship.

Mr. Webster: I have taken all that into consideration. Your Worship has seen where the opium was found, and there seems to be no answer under this particular section. I, therefore, plead guilty to a technical offence. Mr. Webster then went on to refer to a similar case that was heard about June of 1923 concerning the Loong Sang, and said by that case it was shown that it was made impossible for shipping companies in such cases as these to be responsible or to get out of it. In the case of the Loong Sang the magistrate found that there was no guilty knowledge, but found the company guilty of a technical offence. In that case it was shown that it was at a time when smuggling of opium was being carried on a great deal between Manila and Hongkong. The Company concerned in that case put four watchmen on the ship; but notwithstanding the employment of these four men, the smuggling seemed to increase.

His Worship: That rather reflects on the character of the four watchmen.

Mr. Webster: It might do, or it might have been that smuggling was up the increase at that time in any case. It shows how useless it is to have watchmen on board.

His Worship: Of that type anyhow.

Mr. Webster, continuing, said on a large ship like the Ho Sang it was impossible to stop this smuggling no matter what precautions against it were taken or how vigilant the officers and crew might be. If the smuggler was determined to carry on his smuggling, as there was no doubt he was. Regulations might be made and precautions taken by the officers on the boats, but it seemed almost impossible to prevent the smuggling.

Precautions were taken in this case under a circular letter issued to all masters in 1921, which gave certain instructions as to the number of times in a certain number of days the ship must be searched between ports, etc., in order to protect and provide against smuggling. The captain of the Ho Sang could prove by his log-book that the ship was searched. The run between Amoy and Hongkong was 22 hours, and the Ho Sang was searched before they reached Amoy and searched again after the vessel left there by the Master and Officers. Nothing of a contraband nature was found.

His Worship: Presumably this opium was put on at Amoy. What precautions are taken in connection with the loading or unloading of cargo?

Mr. Webster said that chiefly owing to the state of Amoy and knowing that it was a hot-bed of smuggling, the practice was not to enter harbour until it was time to take off the passengers. In this case the Ho Sang remained in the outer harbour with no other craft alongside until it was time to go, the next morning at 7.45, to take off 500 coolie passengers. On this occasion, the Chief Officer actually challenged 6 tins of tea oil, but found they contained oil. But Mr. Webster added, while one tin was being challenged on such occasions, the loading of the vessel continued.

His Worship: I have been over the ship and I must say that it is extremely difficult to prevent smuggling, taking place—I might say almost impossible—but I must register a conviction and I suppose it will help matters and help to enforce the keeping of regulations if I impose a fine. I will register a conviction for a technical offence and impose a fine of $100. In registering this conviction, I must say there is nothing against the Master and Officers of the Ho Sang, there is no guilty knowledge against them and they are not to blame.

His Worship also made an order for the confiscation of the opium.

LARGE HAUL OF HEROIN. SEIZURE ON S.S. GLENTARA.

What will probably turn out to be a very large haul of drugs, has come about through a seizure made on Sunday on the s.s. Glentara,—(one of the Glen Line steamers from Continental Ports) by a party of Revenue Officers.

Sixteen cases containing bedsteads and mattresses which were consigned from Antwerp to Shanghai, were seized and are stated to contain a quantity of heroin, which was found concealed in the iron tubing of the bedsteads.

So far only a few of the cases confiscated have been opened, and until the contents of the remainder have been investigated, it is impossible to state the exact quantity of the haul made, or if there are any other class of drugs concealed in the consignment, such as opium, cocaine or morphine.

The haul appears to be one of the most valuable ever made in Hongkong. For the purpose of conducting the search, all the cases have been transferred from the vessel to the Imports and Exports Office.

DRUNKEN SEAMAN. DISCOVERED AMONG STREET SLEEPERS.

Before Mr. S. B. B. McDermid at the Central Magistracy yesterday, an unemployed seaman, named G. Higgins, who stated that he came from Salford, England, was charged with being drunk and disorderly, having been found sleeping on the pavement in Queen's Road East.

Defendant, who yesterday made his second appearance in court within a month, pleaded that he had no money and was looking for work.

The evidence showed that the defendant was found sleeping among a number of street sleepers in Wanchai and he was then taken to No. 2, Police Station, Wanchai.

Defendant said to His Worship: "Please send me to the House of Detention. If I had any money I would have gone and had a shave." He further said that he came to Hongkong from Singapore in search of work.

His Worship: Yet you have money to drink.

Defendant again expressed a wish to be sent to the House of Detention and His Worship replied "I will send you to gaol. You have money to get drunk. Five dollars or one week's imprisonment with hard labour in default."

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

The meeting of the Finance Committee was afterwards held, the Colonial Secretary presiding.

CONDUIT ROAD WIDENING.

The Governor recommended the Council to vote a sum of $22,500 in aid of the vote Public Works, extraordinary, Hongkong, communications, 23, roads: (w) Conduit Road widening.

The Chairman: This has already been approved by hon. members.

SUBMARINE CABLES.

The Governor recommended the Council to vote a sum of $1,800 on account of Public Works, extraordinary, Hongkong, miscellaneous, concrete tank for the storage of submarine cables.

The Chairman: It is necessary to have a place for storing submarine cables in the Colony. The only alternative is to lay them at the bottom of the harbour where they are liable to damage from the shipping and to theft. The cables are too valuable to take this risk.

Approved.

SECRET SERVICE.

The Governor recommended the Council to vote a sum of $10,000 in aid of the vote Police Department, other charges, secret service.

The Chairman: The vote in the estimates is $8,000. The monthly payment so far has been $1,500 and there appears to be no reason to anticipate a reduction. The additional $10,000 is estimated as sufficient to cover the expenditure to the end of the year.

Approved.

BRITISH EMPIRE EXHIBITION.

The Governor recommended the Council to vote a sum of $25,000 in aid of the vote miscellaneous services, British Empire Exhibition.

The Chairman: This is the Government grant this year to the British Empire Exhibition.

Approved.

RIVER COLLISION.

MARINE COURT OF ENQUIRY'S FINDING.

A Marine Court of Enquiry was held at the Harbour Office yesterday to enquire into the circumstances attending the collision between the s.s. Fatshan and the s.s. Hong Cheong in the Canton River, on June 4th.

The composition of the Court was as under:—Lieut.-Commander G. F. Hole, R.N., Harbour Master (President), Lieut.-Commander C. R. Harvey, R.N., (Chart Depot), Captain P. Goings (Master of the s.s. Charles Hardman), Captain H. Walker (Master of the s.s. Kwong Tung) and Mr. T. Croft.

Mr. G. K. Hall Brutton appeared for the owners of the Hong Cheong, and Mr. D. J. Lewis represented the owners of the Fatshan.

An agreement between masters concerning the overtaking of vessels on the Canton River was put in by Mr. D. J. Lewis.

The evidence given by Captain J. Ritchie (master of the Fatshan) and Chief Officer Dickinson and the pilot of the Fatshan was to the effect that the Fatshan was about 1,000 feet away when she signalled the Hong Cheong that she wished to pass. The Hong Cheong replied and both vessel sheered off to their respective sides of the river. The Hong Cheong was over 300 feet away when the vessels were abreast. Captain Ritchie said that the Hong Cheong must have struck ground, because she suddenly swerved out and came stem on towards the Fatshan, striking her at an angle of about 40 degrees and carried away about thirty feet of rail and a stanchion.

The Master of the Hong Cheong (Captain A. Jenkins) said that the Fatshan was close to his starboard quarter, 30 or 40 feet away when she signalled that she wished to pass. As the Fatshan was passing, he found that his vessel was not answering the helm and though he put his port engine full astern, and drove at half-speed he was unable to prevent her being pulled into the side of the Fatshan.

RISK OF SUCTION.

In cross-examination by Mr. Lewis, Captain Jenkins said that he was aware of the risk of the suction, but thought it was quite safe to allow the Fatshan to pass.

Captain Jenkins attributed the cause of the collision to the suction caused by the Fatshan as the larger vessel, overtaking the Hong Cheong in the Mainland Passage of the river, and said this suction caused the bows of his vessel to be drawn into the Fatshan. He maintained that the Fatshan was not more than 35 feet away at the time.

On this latter point, Captain Ritchie, the Chief Officer and Pilot of the Fatshan disagreed, they stating that when the two ships came abreast there was 350 feet between them.

Mr. Lewis suggested on behalf of the Master of the Fatshan that the Hong Cheong had got into the shallows and had sheered into the Fatshan.

In cross-examination, Captain Ritchie, his Chief Officer and Pilot maintained that there was anything from 800 to 1,000 feet between the Fatshan and the Hong Cheong when the former signalled that she wished to pass the latter vessel, but Captain Jenkins maintained that the Fatshan at the time of signalling was close under his starboard quarter.

As regarded the time that elapsed between the signal given by the Fatshan and the collision, Captain Ritchie said that it was two minutes (from 5.23 to 5.30), but Chief Officer Dickinson of the Fatshan stated that it was from 5.15 to 5.30.

The President of the Court pointed out to Captain Ritchie that his time was impossible having regard to the distance between the two boats as he had given it.

Captain Ritchie held that the Hong Cheong struck his boat stem on at an angle of 40 degrees and Captain Jenkins said that it was a glancing blow and that the Hong Cheong struck the Fatshan with the starboard stem of her bow.

Cross-examining Captain Jenkins, the President asked: "If you had allowed the Fatshan to pass you in the wider or main channel, do you consider there would have been less risk of collision than by allowing her to pass in the 200 feet channel?" Captain Jenkins: No.

MINORITY PLEA.

BANK SUES YOUNG MERCHANT.

At the Supreme Court yesterday before Sir Henry Gollan (the Chief Justice), the Commercial Bank Ltd., York Buildings, made a claim against a Chinese, Chan Ping Shan. The claim was for $10,000, under a letter of guarantee which he and two others were stated to have signed when they opened an account. The defence claimed that as defendant had not attained his majority on the date when he signed the guarantee, he was therefore not liable under it.

Mr. C. G. Alabaster, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. Wilkinson & Grist) appeared for the plaintiff bank, and Mr. F. C. Jenkin (instructed by Messrs. Deacon) was for the defence.

The Bank had originally sued Chan Ping Shan, Fook Cheong and Chan Liu Chia, merchants, of 50, Des Voeux Road Central, for $17,324.83 being principal and interest due on an overdraft of their joint current account which had been opened in June, 1921. Judgment by consent was entered against Fook Cheong and Chan Liu Chia, but Chan Ping Shan held that he was authorized to sign cheques owing to his being manager. He was, however, not a partner and therefore he was in no way liable. The bank then sued him for $10,000 under a letter of guarantee which he had signed when the account was opened in October, 1921. Defendant denied this indebtedness and held that the bank had already had judgment against the firm. He further pleaded that he was twenty-one in July, 1923, and was therefore a junior when he signed the guarantee.

T. H. Mui, manager of the Bank, in answer to Mr. Jenkin, said he began at the plaintiff bank as sub-manager in 1920, that being his first experience in a bank as he came there from the University of Chicago. When this account was opened he had six months' experience and it was at this time he was made manager. Asked what he considered was a joint account he said it was one opened in the name of a firm in which all the partners were individual accountants. He considered Chan Ping Shan a partner in the firm because he was the son of his (witness') adopted father, and it was according to Chinese custom. The case was adjourned until this morning.

Asked the breadth of the Mainland Passage, where the two boats passed and that of the main river, Captain Jenkins said he thought the former was about 200 feet wide and the latter about 300 to 400 feet.

The President: Did you consider that when you gave permission for the Fatshan to pass in the narrow channel it was absolutely safe?—Captain Jenkins: Yes.

In fact there was no risk?—I considered there was no risk.

You say you were expecting the suction?—Yes.

Questioned regarding the beam of the two vessels, Captain Jenkins said the Fatshan had about a fifty foot beam and his vessel had a beam of 25 feet.

The President interposed that the beam of the Fatshan was actually 54 feet.

Captain Ritchie, recalled and questioned by the President, said that his reasons for asking permission to pass the Hong Cheong where he did instead of waiting to get to the wider channel, was that he had to get to the Canton berth before the Hong Cheong and as the Tung On was ahead of him he, therefore, wanted to pass as soon as possible. He considered there was plenty of room to pass where he did.

FINDING OF COURT.

The Court then adjourned to consider its finding.

On returning, the President read the finding of the Court which was as follows:—

"We find that on June 4th, 1923, about 5.30 p.m. the s.s. Hong Cheong came into collision with the s.s. Fatshan in the Western end of the Mainland Channel in the Canton River, owing to suction caused by the Fatshan passing the Hong Cheong."

We find that Mr. Robert H. Ritchie (Master of the s.s. Fatshan) was to blame in that he asked permission from the Hong Cheong to pass in the Mainland Channel, instead of waiting until both ships had arrived in the main river. We also find that Mr. Alexander Jenkins (Master of the s.s. Hong Cheong) is equally to blame in that he consented to the same and we adjudge that both these officers be cautioned."

PEKING DEMONSTRATORS DEMAND CHINA SEVERE RELATIONS WITH BRITAIN.

JAPANESE MINISTER'S NOTE OF WARNING.

CHINESE MERCHANTS IN SHANGHAI SHOWING IMPATIENCE AT TRADE DEADLOCK.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

PEKING, June 15th.
The largest demonstration in Peking since the crisis began, met this afternoon at Tien An Men, consisting of students, merchants, shopkeepers and workmen. They paraded to the Waichiao-pu with the object of demanding that the Government should sever relations with Britain and instruct General Hsiao Yao Nan to send troops to take back the Hankow Concession from the British.

It is understood that Mr. Shen Jui Lin (Foreign Minister) returned to his duties to-day.

CABINET MEETS.

The Cabinet and local Authorities held a long meeting to-day, to discuss measures for the protection of foreigners in China.

There is no confirmation of the Chinese report regarding Kaifeng, but letters from Kaifeng, dated June 15th, state that the situation is most serious and that most foreigners are leaving the city.

BRITISH NOTE TO PEKING.

PEKING, June 15th.
The British Note, in reply to the Chinese Note regarding the Hankow riots, points out the inaccuracies therein and states the facts during the riots. From which it will be seen that the Volunteers showed great restraint and refrained from firing even when the mob charged almost on the points of the bayonets.

The Note says that the foreigners were defending their lives against a murderous mob and does not admit the responsibility of the British Authorities, who were unable to obtain prompt protection from the Chinese Authorities and were obliged to act for themselves.

The Note reminds the Government of the repeated warnings of the responsibility China incurs by allowing the present anti-British agitation to proceed unchecked. It refers to the dissemination of pamphlets, giving the most mendacious accounts of the happenings. It concludes that these calumnies are most dangerous for peoples whose disposition is uncertain. One explosion may be followed by others with deplorable results.

JAPAN SENDS NOTE.

PEKING, June 15th.
The Japanese Legation, on June 15th, sent a Note to the Waichiao-pu, drawing attention to the Hankow affair; and requesting that steps be taken to prevent any repetition.

The Eastern News Agency says that the Note warns the Chinese Government that the unhappy incidents such as the Hankow riots, which are occurring in various parts of the country, are deplorable not only for the victimised Powers but also for China herself. Therefore, it is devoutly hoped that the Chinese Government as well as the local Chinese Authorities will exert all their powers to exercise vigorous control and maintain peace and order in the country. Finally the Note says: "Japan reserves the right to demand in future from China payment of indemnity for the loss of lives and property of Japanese residents in Hankow after full investigations have been completed."

SINO-FOREIGN DISCUSSIONS.

SHANGHAI, June 15th.
The situation in the Settlement is easier, owing to Sino-Foreign official discussions. The shipping situation is unchanged. The majority of Chinese clients will meet their obligations at the Dragon Festival (June 24th).

Other important Chinese business men are beginning to show impatience at the trade deadlock; and are daily discussing the situation with their Foreign friends.

He adds that if anti-foreign disturbances continue, the result will be a repetition of the Ken-Tze Year (Boxer trouble) and Allied troops will be landed.

PRESIDENT CALLES IN REPLY TO MR. KELLOGG.

WASHINGTON, June 14th.
A slight stir in the American-Mexican dovecot was created by the recent statement by Mr. Kellogg, Secretary of State, to the effect that Washington would support Mexico only so long as the latter protected American lives and rights and complied with her international obligations.

REPLY FROM MEXICO.

President Calles, through the Embassy, replied to-day, characterising the passage in Mr. Kellogg's speech as an insult, adding that Mexico would not tolerate any foreign country intervening in her domestic affairs, and that she was not disposed to subordinate her international relations to the exigencies of another country.

LATEST CABLES.

AN OFFICIAL VIEW.

WASHINGTON, June 15th.
Although the statement of President Calles, like that of Secretary Kellogg, was directed to the Press and the statements, therefore, are not an exchange between the two Governments, some officials are astonished at President Calles using the words "insult" and "threat to the sovereignty of Mexico."

Although it is regretted that Mr. Kellogg's statement was uncommonly blunt, behind Mr. Kellogg's statement lies a wealth of information in regard to the conduct of Mexican affairs, including the seizure of American property by so-called Agrarians.

HONGKONG FIRE BRIGADE.

REPORT ON LAST YEAR'S WORK.

The cost of the Fire Brigade for the year 1924 was $109,570.00 as compared with $138,730.00 in 1923 and $177,799 in 1922. Special Expenditure amounting to $40,187.00 is included. This heading comprises the addition of one First Aid Fire-Tender and other equipment.

NEW FIRE FLOAT.

Tenders were called for the new Fire float referred to in the 1923 report and construction commenced late in 1924. The accepted tender amounting to $170,000.00 calls for delivery of this float, which is provided with a goitre telescopic tower fitted with a powerful motor, within 9 months. There are two monitors capable of delivering 2,000 gallons per minute each. The increasing number of fires in the harbour added to those on shore near the water front shows the wisdom of making this further provision for ships and water front fires.

NEW CENTRAL FIRE STATION.

During the early part of the year the steel framework of the building was completed. A regrettable delay in starting work on the superstructure followed and the actual contract for completing the building was not let until September last. However the new contractors Messrs. Trollope and Colls have got to work with commendable energy and it is anticipated that the structure should be near completion by the end of 1925.

RECRUITS.

The difficulty of obtaining suitable recruits and of retaining men after completing their training continued throughout the year. However there is now a fair prospect of obtaining all the men required. On completing their training they enter into an agreement to serve for 3 years. This arrangement should considerably reduce the number of resignations. The firemen recruited shortly after the reorganisation of the Brigade have now reached a high state of efficiency as two demonstrations given during the year showed. The provision of a Challenge Cup for the best Motor, Escape team and other prizes has proved a most useful incentive to increased efficiency. The thanks of the Brigade are due to those firms which have contributed so generously to the Prize Fund.

SUB-OFFICERS.

The appointment in 1924 of four native Sub-Officers with a good knowledge of English has proved a step in the right direction and a great improvement on the old interpreters who had no knowledge of fire fighting, and fully justified the further provision of such officers in the 1925 Estimates.

MOTOR DRIVERS SCHOOL.

The question of providing an adequate number of competent drivers has been satisfactorily settled by the provision, rather in the nature of an experiment in 1923, of a Fire Brigade Motor Drivers School under the direct supervision of the Superintendent of the Brigade and the Chief Motor Mechanic, Kowloon-Canton Railway. This school successfully turned out 9 drivers during the year fully competent to take charge of the powerful Fire Brigade pumps and other appliances and it may now be regarded as a permanent institution in the Brigade. All drivers trained in this School are under agreement with the Brigade for 5 years on an incremental scale of pay.

FIRES AND LOSS OF LIFE.

The actual number of fires, though less than in 1923, show a serious loss of life. The loss of one fireman, who was killed when the verandah of No. 101 Queen's Road West, collapsed during a fire on these premises is greatly regretted.

At the Central Magistracy yesterday, before Mr. S. B. B. McElderry, a licensed motor-car driver was charged in connection with the accident that occurred on Friday night in Des Vaux Road Central, when an old man, a woman and a child were injured and taken to the Government Civil Hospital, where they are at present. The man was charged with reckless driving and was remanded for one week.

IN SICILY.

THE GERMANS ON HOLIDAY.

Entzückend!
Herzlich!
Wunderbar!

The peerless beauty spots of Sicily ring to-day with the guttural accent of the German tourist, writes Valentine Williams in the Daily Mail. Germans of all classes, and not of the Schleier, the profligate, type alone, as in the first years after the war, have allowed themselves the luxury of the long and expensive journey from Germany and have descended in a swarm upon the island.

In the great hotels, as in the cheap pensions, the Germans outnumber the visitors of all other nationalities; they have swamped the accommodation of the travels de luxe to Naples and Rome for the homeward journey; and for their tours about the island many of them engage private cars. American friends of mine declined to hire a car to travel the 200 odd miles from Palermo to Taormina because they found the price demanded, 2,000 lire, about £17 10s., excessive; but the Germans pay this price all the time.

I cannot imagine why those well-intentioned folk who are appealing for funds to feed the hungry Germans do not send their collecting cards to Sicily, where the real money is, instead of rattling their boxes among hungry Britons at home. I could take them into one or two restaurants here or in Palermo and let them hear a feed-the-German drive in full swing.

With most of the German tourists in the big hotels, so the hotel folk assure me, money is absolutely no object. They demand the best accommodation—rooms with private bath, balcony, sea view; and since they pay without discussion, not unnaturally they get it. They stint themselves of nothing; in fact, that bugbear of hotel-keepers, the pre-war German tourist, who took the cheapest room and spent nothing further in the hotel, is a thing of the past.

AMAZING CLOTHES.

In fairness to our late enemies, it should be remarked that the public behaviour of the travelling German has greatly improved. The German, I know, are highly sensitive on the subject of the repute which their war methods gained them in the eyes of the civilised world; and those whom I have encountered since the armistice, particularly this spring in Sicily, keep themselves strictly to themselves.

One is therefore spared the tiresome practice of the travelling German of thrusting his acquaintanceship upon all and sundry in order to improve his knowledge of foreign tongues; and most of the inoffensive and preventive German bouncer has evaporated. The restaurant manners of some of these wealthy German tourists are rather hard to bear, until one has accustomed oneself to the sight of assiduous tooth-pick 'drill' between the courses; and the way in which at one place a German honeymoon couple pawed each other about in public did more credit to their affection than to their discretion.

The German taste in dress remains extraordinary. I cannot find that obese men, crammed into skin-tight Palm Beach suits, with shaven heads lined with pink creases at the back, or stout women, arrayed in screaming plaid, with skirts short enough to display a monstrous calf bursting out of the most expensive of silk stockings, add anything to the beauty of the Sicilian scene. Nor, as it is said, do these Germans of less modern ideas who push their discretion in dress to the point of travelling, the men in bowler hats and morning-coat suits, and the women in satin or even plush.

But do not suppose that it is Germany's new rich who are thronging Sicily this spring. The German tourists seem to be of all social levels, many quite obviously belonging to the professional and student classes, who, we are constantly assured, are starving. I don't know where they have got the money to treat themselves to this long trip from home, but here they are, with the Rundreise tickets, crowding the cheap boarding-houses and filling the second class in the trains. In all the tourist centres of Sicily, too, you come across bands of young German men and girls, ruckus on back, browned by the sun, on walking tours.

PLENTY OF MONEY.

L'argent est toujours bon is a practical French saying, and in accordance with its teaching, the Italians, willy-nilly, do what is necessary to handle the German invasion. So many of the employees in the large Sicilian hotels speak German and Italian with equal fluency that I can only suppose they come from the former Italian provinces of Austria-Hungary.

Hotel notices and notices in the station, buffets are in German as well as French, English, and Italian; while here in Taormina the Casino posters, and many announcements in the shops, are in the four languages. In Taormina and other tourist resorts many of the shops are kept by Germans, who come from Germany for the season only, to sell picture postcards, photographs, antiques and bric-a-brac.

Whatever their station one thing is evident about all these German tourists, and that is that everyone, according to his mode of life, is abundantly provided with money for his holiday. Even the less well-to-do drive out in carriages for excursions of day-back, dance to the Casino and the this dante, and forgo at the aperitif hour at cafe and bar. And almost all have cameras, admirable German cameras, many of the most elaborate description, with which they snap-shot continuously.

CINEMA NOTES.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.

As the hero of a circus, Jackie Coogan, a bareback riding clown, is the envy of all small boys this week in his new First National picture, "Circus Days," showing for the last time to-day at the Queen's Theatre. Incidentally, Jackie got just as much fun out of his rôle as any real boy, given a similar opportunity, might be expected to enjoy.

He has the stellar rôle of Toby Tyler, who runs away from the farm of an overbearing uncle and obtains a job as a circus peanant salesman. Toby's big chance comes when Jeannette, tiny equestrian star, sprains her ankle. He substitutes for her. To the surprise of everyone, including himself, he makes a great hit, though not in the way he meant. He becomes the star clown of the show, his fortune is made, and little Jeannette looks upon him with admiring eyes.

There are no French, and few British, tourists of this class in Sicily. It is to be supposed that they cannot afford the fare. No sensible person beguodes the Germans their Italian vacations; but their invasion of Sicily should silence the stories of German penny which prevents our late enemies from paying their debts. There is no national amour propre left in Germany, so it is probably too much to expect that these people, who can afford to go touring in Italy, should object to foreigners pauperising their nation by feeding their children.

As an Italian said to me: "Why didn't we lose the war?"

WITHOUT PURE BLOOD HEALTH IS IMPOSSIBLE.

VETARZO BLOOD MEDICINE

Never before was there anything like it, nor are its marvellous properties likely ever to be equalled in disease arising from impure blood. It searches out and expels from the vital current every lurking trace of poisonous matter, curing blood and skin diseases, scrofulous and glandular swellings, bad legs, abscesses, ulcers, eczema, gout, rheumatism, gonorrhea or Derbyshire Neck, etc. It improves the general health and quickly removes long-standing humors, without and looking, retaining, spasmodic cough, too often the precursor of consumption.

LIFE WITHOUT HEALTH IS LIVING DEATH.

VETARZO BRAIN AND NERVE FOOD.
For Nervous Breakdown and Chronic Weakness.
